Notice To The Public:

It has been called to my attention that a candidate for a County office is subject to be spreading false rumors and using my name. I would like to state that I am staying in the insurance business and that no one is running to resign so I can be appointed to an office. In my opinion, the candidate is spreading the rumor to make the voters believe his opponent is running only to resign and appointed might not be the choice of the voters.

Spring Cleaning in the Modern Manner

Spring cleaning is a breeze today, thanks to new cleaning equipment techniques. Now, a mere slip of a bride can keep her house sparkling clean provided she knows how to select the right vacuum for her cleaning needs.

For those who are about to start the annual cleanup, here are tips from the Singer Sewing Machine Company, makers of the famous Golden Glide vacuum cleaner, the Roll-A-Magic bucket canister, the Magic Carpet upright cleaner and the convenient Magic Mite hand cleaner.

Most homemakers will appreciate the convenience of the canister models, with their many attachments to ease cleaning chores. The dusting brush makes quick work of moldings, picture frames, louvered screens and Venetian blinds. The upholstery brush is used for chairs and sofas, and for such special jobs as dusting the fabric-covered spanker of the hi-fi. The new reversible brush attachment does a thorough job on carpets.

Save energy by pulling the canister along on its wheels rather than lifting; stand it on end for cleaning stairs or for extra height in reaching high places.

If you are proud of the fine wall-to-wall carpeting in your home, the upright cleaner is probably your choice. For above-floor cleaning, invest in the tiny hand-cleaner, which performs many specialized cleaning jobs without attachments.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORIAM
FERGUSON: In loving memory of my father, Mr. Benjamin M. Ferguson, who departed this life, April 9, 1951.

Though death has taken you from us,
And years have passed since you have gone,
Your face and gentle voice, dear one,
In memory still live on.

I bless each memory of you,
How I miss your smiling face;
You left us to remember,
There is none on earth can take your place.
Daughter: Mrs. C. J. Paulette.

IN MEMORIAM
In sad but loving remembrance of our Husband and Father, Alex Gobble, who departed this life three years ago today, April 8, 1956.

We do not need a special day,
To bring you to our minds;
The days we do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.

Some day, some time,
Our eyes shall see;
The face we loved so well,
Some day we'll clasp his loving hand,
And never say farewell.
—Sadly missed by
Wife and Children.

IN MEMORIAM
In sad but loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, Wesley M. Franklin, who passed away seven years ago, April 2, 1952.

Seven long years have passed,
Dear son and brother since you went away.
But you have not been forgotten,
For we miss you more each day.

Some say time heals all sorrow,
And helps one to forget;
But time has so far only proved
How much we miss him yet.

If we had all this world to give,
We'd give it yes, and more,
To see his face and hear his voice,
And meet him at the door.

Treasured thoughts of one so dear
Often bring a silent tear,
As time and memory both shall last,
From our hearts you will never pass.

Often to your grave we wander,
Place some flowers with loving care.
And we feel that you are near us,
As we sadly linger there.
—Sadly missed by,
Mother, Daddy,
Sisters and Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM
In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs .A. B. Ferguson, who departed this life eleven years ago today, April 7, 1948.

Eleven years ago today you left us,
So sad was that day God took you in His loving arms,
And then turned out the light.
How we miss your sweet smiling face
Dear mother. No one can take your place.
It seems but yesterday,
When we heard you call.
Help us to wait dear Jesus,
And be patient till we meet
Our dear darling mother,
On that happy Golden Shore.

TREAT SHEEP BEFORE THEY GO TO PASTURE

There's more to putting your sheep on spring pasture than just opening the gate. George A. Allen, Jr., sheep specialist at VPI, says sheep need careful attention to maintain good health.

He says to give all mature sheep a dose of phenothiazine to get rid of internal parasites before turning them on permanent pastures.

Otherwise they will infect the new pasture with worm eggs. If sheep are allowed to drop worm eggs now where they will graze later, a few blades of grass will carry enough worms t inofect 100 sheep.

It will be too late if you wait until shearing time to treat your sheep, Allen says. Treat early and turn clean sheep on clean pasture.

Today is the deadline for candidates to file for the June Town of Appomattox election.

No compromise in sight on Perrow Commission report.

Newest 1959 Boats Have Twin Hulls For Rough Water Safety

This 28-foot twin-hull catamaran was the largest outboard cruiser in the New York and Chicago boat shows, which kicked off the 1959 boating season. Designed by Carl Kiekhaefer, whose company makes Mercury outboard motors, the "cat" cruiser is intended to stimulate new interest in even safer and more comfortable boats. It was designed specifically to ride smoothly and safely in rough and open water, pointing the way toward future outboard hull development.

Mercury itself does not build or sell boats, but it is reported that more than 20 boat builders are planning catamaran models for the 1959 boating season. The cruiser also pioneers the 28-inch transom, which is a foot higher than customary on outboard boats for greater safety in rough water and following seas. With the showing of the boat, the company announced the industry's first motor with a 12-inch-longer shaft for higher transoms, and a new remote steering system of rods inside rigid conduit to replace the conventional rope-and-pulley system on longer hulls.

Built by Warren Gale of Ft. Pierce, Florida, the catamaran cruiser has a beam of 10 feet 4 inches, a free-board of 42 inches, and seats up to 20 people. The drivers cockpit is forward of the cabin for better visibility in cruising with a second set of controls at the afterdeck for use while sport fishing.

Millions Now Under Some Form of Health Protection Program

NEW YORK—More than $4-billion—a rate of $11 million per day—of the nation's health care bill will be paid in 1958 through voluntary health insurance programs.

This estimate, made by the Health Insurance Council, is based on the results of its annual survey of health insurance coverage in the United States for 1957. Benefit payments to help cover the cost of hospital, surgical, and medical care, last year amounted to $3.5 billion, up 20.7% over 1956, and an all-time high.

In a projection of 1957 figures on health insurance coverage in the United States, it is estimated that as of June some 123 million persons were protected against the cost of hospital expenses through voluntary health insurance programs, 111 million were covered for surgical expenses, 74 million had policies covering regular medical expenses, and 15 million were insured against major medical expenses. These figures mean that about 72 per cent of the total U.S. civilian population today is protected by some form of voluntary health insurance.

Advances in all types of health insurance coverage were revealed in the report. During the year, the number of people covered by hospital care insurance rose by more than 5 million over the year before, the number of people covered by surgical expense insurance increased nearly 8 million, and persons covered for regular medical expenses rose 7 million. In addition, loss of income policies afforded protection to over 1 million more people, while over 4 million, more than in 1956—a rise of nearly 50%—were reported covered by major medical insurance policies.

Tooth Decay Not New for Mankind

NEW YORK—Tooth decay is the most common disease in the world —and probably the oldest. Trace man back as far as you can, and you find evidence of dental ills.

In the writings of Hippocrates, Pliny, Galen, and other early writers on natural science and medicine, frequent mention is made of medicinal substances for treatment of disease of the teeth and mouth.

Some of the early dental remedies are so bizarre as to make toothache an almost welcome alternative. Pliny, for example, recommends: "If one wishes to be free of toothache, one should eat a whole mouse twice a month."

Reference to dental operations in the writing of Herodotus and Hippocrates in the fifth century B.C. The Romans, who were highly conscious of person hygiene, often demanded the services of a dental specialist.

Both the use of artificial teeth and other aspects of dentistry are mentioned in the writings of Galen, a renown Roman anatomist of the second century A.D.

Says Schools Should Not Do Other's Work

CHICAGO—Schools have plenty to do teaching the subjects a child's family, play group and community cannot teach him without these groups shoving off their functions on the schools.

This is the belief of Prof. Robert C. Angell, University of Michigan professor of sociology. "Each institution should be assigned a set of tasks it can effectively perform," he said. "Not even the schools have the whole job of teaching children. A much sounder approach is to assume that life is the great teacher and that the school's is a specialized job—that of transmitting the knowledge most difficult of assimilation."

Facial Pain Is Held Most Agonizing Of All

CHICAGO—The reasons for facial pain being "perhaps the most agonizing of all afflictions" are given by a Georgia doctor.

There is a reasonable physical reason for severe suffering from facial pain. The "cerebale end of man has been blessed with the highest degree" of nervous development.

Also the head and face command more attention than other parts of the body, Dr. George W. Smith, Augusta, Ga., says. Awareness of others scrutinizing his face magnifies all sensations, he says.

Making It Clear

PHOENIX—The words "yes" and "no" aren't plain enough, or simple enough to cover items which might appear on the voting agenda, it seems.

Anyhow, the words "for" and "against" will henceforth be used by Arizona voters to designate their preferences on proposed constitutional amendments.

That seems clearer than "yes" and "no," says Secretary of State Wesley Bolin.
